Kobe Beef

USDA Grading: Select, Choice, and Prime
Japanese Wagyu Grading: A1, A2, A3, A4 and A5

In Japan, "Kobe Beef" refers only to beef from the Japanese Black strain of Wagyu cattle raised in the Hyogo Prefecture. In the U.S., "Kobe Beef" often refers to beef raised in the U.S. either from other strains of Wagyu or from cattle that are only part (or not even part) Wagyu. We proudly serve Kobe Beef that is certified 100% Japanese Black Wagyu, raised in Japan

Many myths (and truths) surround the caretaking practices of Japanese ranchers including beer massages, sake diets, etc... While we are kept in the dark about these practices, we do know that our Wagyu steaks are certified at the highest ratings of A4 to A5 and are some of the best in the world. The intense marbling of these premium cuts of beef leads to a rich, buttery steak unlike any other.
